

The ROI Surgical Representative for GASOC increases awareness of the organisation and global surgery in general among Irish trainees and the wider post-graduate trainee body. This is an opportunity to join and work with an inspiring team and raise awareness of global health issues among Irish trainees. The ROI Surgical Representative will be expected to work closely with other Irish Representatives, particularly the Obstetric Representative to organise local events, as well as collaborating with the UK and international surgical representatives to organise events like journal club and the annual GASOC conference.

Essential: This post is open to post-intern trainees working in a surgical specialty, either as a trainee or in a stand-alone post.
